CHEERS FOR STANLEY

Wichita Volunteers Hold a Ratification Meeting.

ON THE OLD BATTLEFIELD

They Are Getting Anxious to Leave For Cuba.

Harlan Cloud writes the Eagle as follows:

Camp Thomas, June 13, 1898.

To the Editor of the Eagle.
The boys from Wichita, as well as all over this camp, are getting restless. It is scarcely true that we want to stay here all summer. It's hot, it's getting boring and that's all we dread of going to Cuba. We are anxious to get away, however, and the general expectation here is that we will vacate the Chickamauga battlefield within ten days.

When we heard that W. E. Stanley had been nominated for governor the boys got together and held a sort of a ratification meeting which consisted principally of yelling. We want to vote.

You have heard all about our bill of fare and daily routine. Let me tell you something about how the battlefield of Chickamauga looks.
The notable battlefield of Chickamauga upon which we have the pleasure of camping, is twelve miles square, and embraces territory in both Tennessee and Georgia. Its surface is rather rough, and covered for the most part with heavy timber, composed of pine, oak, walnut and cedar. In diverse places all over the field are monuments and tablets, and where batteries were located cannon are mounted to show their position and point of attack. The evidence of the mighty battle is not borne alone by the monuments and tablets; the tops of grand old pines and oaks are missing, their limbs having been severed and their sides splintered up by cannon balls. Occasionally, also, the soldiers pick up grape and cannister, pieces of shells or bullets which, thirty-five years ago, were sent on their way to scatter death among the opposing forces.

In front of us and about ten miles distant is the historic Lookout Mountain, whose heights the old soldiers who fought under Hooker will not fail to remember. To return to our company, I will say that they are all jovial, good fellows; the best of feeling prevails in our camp, and all are enjoying health with the exception of one member from Cheney, who we are sorry to say, lies quite sick at the hospital. All of our boys from Wichita are well, not even one showing the evidences of homesickness. We were much surprised last week on learning that our captain, B. L. Snow, had resigned his position as commander of our company and would soon return home. Captain Snow has won not only the love of every man in the company, but all others who have come in contact with him. He leaves us with the best wishes of all attending him. While we are sorry to lose Captain Snow, we are glad that we have a man fully as competent in Ezra Beard, who is to take his place. Captain Beard is loved by all of his command, and being possessed of all the ardor and vigor of manhood, we feel that he cannot help, with his military training, to prove himself brave and fully competent.

The number of men in the camp now numbers more than 40,000. The soldiers belonging to the First army corps are being equipped and drilled as fast as possible and are being held in readiness to move to the front; some, we learn, have already departed. The Twenty-first is anxiously awaiting its orders to move, and is drilling very hard in the meantime.

We fully expect to see Cuba or Porto Rico soon and have a chance to take part in the evening of the lives of our noble seamen of the battleship Maine.

Very respectfully,
HARLAN CLOUD.
